D.C. Engineering Shakeup Seen

Rowe Takes Over

Daly City's engineering division was placed under temporary, direct control of City Manager David Rowe Monday, in a move that some observers say signals the imminent departure of City Engineer David K. Macabee.

Rowe is expected to inform City Council tonight that the eight permanent employees of the Consolidated Public Works-Community Development Department's engineering division began reporting to him today.

The city manager said the change is the result of a recent survey of employees which showed "a need for direct special attention to organizational and morale questions within the engineering division."

Rowe did not comment on Macabee's role in the change, except to say that the city engineer "will continue to be responsible for the building, electrical, streets and water divisions."

However, at least one councilman said privately that Macabee has been told to seek employment elsewhere. The city engineer has been the target of some complaints from council members and residents.

Macabee has been employed by Daly City 10 years.

One resident charged that the city engineer was insensitive to citizens' problems when he told homeowners who feared flooding to move all furniture to second-story levels when rain was expected.

There was speculation last summer when the City Council decided to consolidate the city's public works and community development departments that it related to dissatisfaction with the city engineer.

Rowe told the council at budget time that consolidation might save about $90,000 by cutting out four positions.

Rowe said at that time that he hoped such goals could be achieved through attrition, but said, "There may be a possibility of layoffs."

The city manager also said in June that consolidation could be accomplished by Jan. 1, but now concedes that such action won't be completed before the end of the fiscal year next June.

Rowe said consolidation, so far, has been in name only and he is looking again at the concept to determine whether it is practical.

He said the current decision to place the engineering division under his supervision grew directly out of an employee survey taken by the firm of 'Hughes, Heiss and Associates of San Mateo.

The city paid about $5,000 to the consulting firm to develop a questionnaire to be answered by about 80

Teen-Age Mothers Get Pregnant Younger

By JANET PARKER

Teen-age mothers in San Mateo County are getting younger, despite the overwhelming odds against their success as parents.

While the number of babies available for adoption by childless couples is dropping, single parenthood and teen-age motherhood is becoming more acceptable.

In fact, those who work in the field here say that adolescent parenthood is an epidemic and the medicine — thousands of welfare dollars — is only prolonging the malady.

It's no longer unusual for 13-and 14-year-old girls to be part of the problem. Planned Parenthood of San Mateo County is seeing 12-year-olds this year for the first time.

Those in the field say most girls who become pregnant today and keep their babies had every intention of becoming young mothers from the start.

For some, it's escape from a bad homelife. For others, it's a way to find someone to love who will love them back.

But, for the taxpayer, it's a financial burden when a young mother requires public support to see her through parenting. According to the county Health and Welfare Department statistics division, 184 girls 18 years or younger were receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children — a form of welfare — as of June. The average cash grant per month is $281.16 with a maximum payment of $287.

Many also receive food stamps and Medi-Cal.

And, the younger the girl when she becomes pregnant, the longer the public will be supporting her, social workers who aid adolescent parents say.

"We've got a problem and it's getting worse," said Harriet Kumetat, a social worker with "School Age Mothers" (SAM) in South San Francisco.

Although the total number of girls under 18 giving birth in San Mateo County is decreasing — from 486 in 1971 to 374 in 1975 — teen-age abortions are increasing at startling proportions. Planned Parenthood officials were aware of 946 teen abortions in 1976 — and certainly not all abortions are reported, they said.

Mrs. Kumetat and others in her field say they fear that pending legislation, such as one just passed by the U.S. Senate, will restrict financial aid for abortions and force many girls who might otherwise end their pregnancy to continue.

"Heaven help us if legislation like that passes," one social worker commented.

In the last three years, not one mother in either the South San Francisco or Redwood City SAM programs — about 400 girls — has given up her baby for adoption.

"So many girls see it as a way out of a bad homelife," according to Kathy O'Brien with the Redwood City program.

"A lot of people think birth control is the answer," she said. "It isn't. They want to get pregnant."

Mrs. Kumetat recalled one girl who was in trouble

Colma's Ottoboni Will Run Again

Raymond Ottoboni Sr., the Colma councilman who's been in office longer than any other council member in San Mateo County, will run for re-election in March.

Ottoboni, 72, said he will file this month to seek another four-year term on the council. He has served 28 years as a councilman in the city of 500.

The veteran councilman said he doesn't believe that a plea of "no contest" to a misdemeanor voting fraud charge 15 months ago will hurt his chances of election.

Ottoboni, who was sentenced to two years summary probation, a $625 fine and 50 hours of public service work, appeared in Superior Court last week to change his plea to not guilty.

Judge Frank Piombo terminated Ottoboni's probation.

Ottoboni said that a recall effort started by his opponents shortly after the incident 15 months ago failed to garner any votes.

Ottoboni said he believes he has set a state record in length of time on a city council. He's been mayor a number of times.

He can recall a time some 15 years ago when Colma had only $23 in its treasury. Now the small city realizes about $650,000 each year from sales tax revenues.

The retired nurseryman said he helped to change the financial picture of the city by serving as chairman of the Planning Commission that approved the development of Serra Center, a popular shopping area on Serramonte Boulevard at Junipero Serra.

Ottoboni first opposed a large K-Mart development last year, but later changed his mind and voted for it. Development of the project on El Camino Real has been stalled by court action by opponents.

The councilman said he decided to support the project because of the public improvements the developer said would be made.

Ottoboni states, "I've done a lot of good work for the town."

HONORED RETIREE

Battalion Chief Melvin Hanson will be honored by friends and co-workers at a retirement dinner at the Crystal Springs Golf Club, 6650 Golf Course Drive, Burlingame, Jan. 20. Hanson, after 27 years with the Daly City Fire Dept., is retiring effective Jan. 15.

Friends and associates are invited to join in this occasion. Information and tickets can be obtained by contacting Marie Brizuela at Fire Administration, 10 Wembley Drive, Daly City 94015, phone 878-9880.

Firm to Give Up Initial Profit to Get Station Built

By NANCY STANCILL

Mussel Rock Transfer Station Inc. will give up its initial operating profit margin in order to get the $950,000 Daly City garbage compacting facility built.

The City Council Monday unanimously approved a lease agreement with the Skyline Land Co. and a management contract with the Mussel Rock Transfer Station Inc. to construct the station.

The two companies are separate legal entities formed from the Daly City Scavanger Co. to construct and operate the transfer station.

The council's approval is conditional that the cost of disposing of Daly City and Pacifica garbage not exceed $17.95 per ton for the first year of operation.

Cost estimates have put the price at 80 cents per ton higher, so the scavenger company will have to "get $200,000 out of the cost," according to the scavengers' attorney Paul Hupf.

The $17.95 per ton figure includes the $9.75 Ox Mountain dump fee, a $6.40 operating cost and a $1.80 construction cost.

The construction cost is the one that has ballooned, so Hupf said the scavengers will trim building costs and cut into operating projections to come up with the extra 80 cents per ton.

The operating cost included a 43 cents per ton "management fee" or profit margin that probably will be wiped out.

"The 43 cents is probably going to go," Huph conceded.

The scavenger company apparently was willing to sacrifice its initial profit margin out of concern that Daly City was considering pulling out of the transfer station construction.

City Manager David Rowe said last week that he was looking again at the alternative of using San Francisco's transfer station at an estimated $16.98 per ton, rather than going much above the $17.95 Mussel Rock figure previously discussed.

The Daly City Scavenger officials apparently were worried such a move would put the smaller garbage collection firm at the mercy of the large San Francisco garbage outfit.

"We believe the transfer station is important to Daly City and that it is important to Daly City citizens to control their destiny in this matter," Hupf said.

With the construction of the transfer station, officials have estimated that Daly City garbage customers will pay 25 percent higher fees, or perhaps more, to get garbage service. Residential customers now pay $6.90 bimonthly.

The Coastside Scavenger Co., which serves Pacifica residents, also will be charged $17.95 per ton to dispose of garbage at the new transfer station. Garbage rates for Pacifica

Citizens' Mixture Of Skepticism

Daly City residents exhibited a mixture of skepticism and suspicion Monday as the City Council acted to approve contracts to get Mussel Rock Transfer Station construction under way.

Harold Calder, the most persistent critic of the Daly City Scavenger Co., was one of seven residents to question the management and lease contracts.

"How long have you been studying these agreements?" he asked pointedly.

"About an hour," Mayor pro tem William Schumacher answered.

Calder asked about the arrangement with the Skyline Land Co., a partnership of Daly City Scavenger officials. The city will have the option to purchase the transfer station for $6,000 after 21 years of lease payments.

City officials said the original plan was to take possession after 16 years of payments, but financing requirements have changed the picture.

City Council members stressed that an annual rate review and audit should determine whether the scavenger company is reimbursed fairly for costs.

Louise Garry, a director of the Original Daly City Protective Association, noted that Daly City would not have an inspector at the transfer station site to check tonnage figures.

"What's to keep them (the Daly City Scavenger Co.) from running their

SSF Fire Chief 'Still Applying Water'

By BILL HURSCHMANN

The Jan. 15 transition at the South San Francisco Fire Department will be an easy one.

It's on that day that Assistant Chief Dirk Zylker assumes the position of fire chief from retiring Chief Larry Toellner. According to Zylker, "I don't foresee any great changes."Toellner is retiring Jan. 15, after five years as chief in South San Francisco and 32 years experience as a firefighter. He and his wife, Gertrude, are moving to Camino, just outside of Placerville, where they own a home on six acres.

Zylker, who has been Toellner's right-hand man, will slide easily into Toellner's chair. The 53-year-old Zykler began with the department in 1957, as a hoseman. He was promoted to captain nine years later, and became assistant chief in 1972.

Toellner, also 53, began his fire fighting career with a brief stint with the Naval Supply Fire Department in Oakland. His next assignment was not quite as brief — 26½ years with the Oakland Fire Department. He was fire marshal in Oakland five years before he joined South San Francisco Jan. 15, 1973.

"Fire fighting in a real sense hasn't changed in the past 32 year" Toellner said. "We're still applying water. But the equipment itself is the biggest change. . ."

More sophisticated equipment has made fire fighting more efficient and effective in recent years.

In Toellner's time with the South San Francisco department, it has grown only slightly, from 72 men to 81 (including two civilians). But other things have changed dramatically.

"The complexities of fire fighting operations are in a constant state of change," he pointed out.

Toellner said that one of his proudest accomplishments was the adding of a full-fledged truck company.

"An old axiom among firefighters is that your departent is only as strong as its truck company," Toeller reflected.

"When I first came, we had a ladder truck that was manned permanently by one man. Now our three-man truck company is an integral part of our team operation. It's the first to respond to an alarm of all box, automatic and structural calls."

Toeller admits he won't be a simple farmer and golfer after Jan. 15.

"I do hope to get involved with building and fire code development." he said, two areas that long have inerested him.

However, he added, "There's no question, after 32

Most Teen-Agers Keep Their Babies

Sherry Cervantes was only 15 when she found out she was pregnant. Unlike many of her teen-age predecessors, she wasn't shocked or dismayed. Her reaction was one of satisfaction.

The South San Francisco girl is one of the many present-day teens who plan their pregnancies.

"I wanted to have a baby," the 18-year-old woman reflected. She was attending South San Francisco High School when she met the young man who was to become her husband.

Now they are seperated and she is living with her parents.

She recalls wanting a baby when she was 13 years old and by the time she was 15, had found a young man whom she loved and wanted to be the father. It was "as good a time as any," she said.

Their son, Jason, is now 2 years old.

"I always liked kids a lot," she said. "I had wanted a baby for so long. But, I hadn't gotten pregnant before."

"My mother wasn't upset or anything," she said. "My dad took it a little harder. All my friends were happy."

She married the father before her baby was born. She says confidently that early parenting obligations didn't cause her to miss out on any typical high school activities.

Having a baby early in life, she said, has allowed her to grow along with her child. There's an advantage, she said, in raising a family before reaching middle age.

Mrs. Cervantes doesn't believe there's much pressure on teen-age girls today to give up their babies for adoption. As parents began to accept their daughters' sexual activity, they also accepted the resulting children, she explained. So-called "good girls" do these things, too, she said.

'I like it, I really do," she said of her young motherhood. "It's not so much of a burden. I wouldn't have done it if I didn't want to."

Tara didn't go to school for two months after she found out she was pregnant — not because she was embarrassed or uncomfortable but because she simply didn't feel like it. The East Palo Alto girl was only 16 at the time and didn't feel up to studying. Her mind was on the impending birth.

She finished high school in the "School Age Mothers" program.

Tara's boy is a year old now and she's settled into living with her parents who help her take care of her baby. She's hoping to go to Canada College and study nursing. But, in the meantime, she remains on welfare.

"I feel I did the right thing," she said. "It's my life. I didn't want to give the baby up."

She spends her time caring for her baby, and her parents act as baby sitters when she goes out with friends. The father isn't aware the baby exists and if it weren't for her family's support, she would be alone in her parenthood. But, she doesn't regret her decision to keep the baby and be a young, single parent.

"I have someone to share it with," she said. "I share it with my parents."

Gema and Lance Precour are one of the few teen-age parent success stories, her School Age Mothers program advisor said.

But, the couple's decision to raise a child before graduating from high school has posed some problems in their lives.

Gema was 16 when she found out she was pregnant.

Now, she is 18 and her husband, who presently is unemployed, is 19. He never finished high school and she is just finishing school now.

They didn't plan her pregnancy, but they had no doubts in their minds that they would get married and she would have the baby.

She admits it's sometimes hard to meet many demands — being a wife, a mother and a student among them.

But, she said she considered the potential problems and decided it was important to have the baby. She knew she could always go on welfare if she had to.

"He's got clothes and food and love," Gema said. "That's all he needs right now."

Her husband was equally opposed to the idea of an abortion, and quickly proposed marriage when Gema became pregnant.

"It's been tough," he said. "Neither of us were ready for it. But, I wanted us to stay together."

Gema said her parents were depressed and disappointed when they learned of her plight. But, they eventually accepted the idea and all her relatives have provided support since Lance Jr. was born.

Her unmarried, younger sister has a baby now, too. She's tried to finish high school, Gema said, but had to drop out when the responsibilities became overwhelming.

The changing attitude of society in general toward young mothers has helped girls like herself, she said. Parents used to conceal their daughter's pregnancy and send the young woman away.

But, the prospective young mothers began to realize that their babies were part of them and they couldn't surrender their own flesh and blood, she and other young mothers explain.

"Things have changed quite a bit," Gema said.

with the law and on the verge of being taken into custody by the California Youth Authority. Her way of avoiding the lock-up was to get pregnant. It worked.

Many teen-age girls are wanting babies for all the wrong reasons, according to Chope Community Hospital social worker Karen Zuzich-Cancino.

"Because these girls are so needy themselves, they are not emotionally ready to provide the love and care that the baby needs," she said. Most of the young parents are just not equipped to provide the kind of parenting an infant needs, she said.

Farris Roberts, San Mateo Union High School District social work worker, says she believes most of the girls have adequate information not to get pregnant. But, in her previous work in the Los Angeles area, she found that a girl's personal experiences play a large part in her pregnancy.

"My hunch is that crisis with some male figure is a significant factor," Ms. Roberts said. She worked with one girl whose father had recently died and whose mother had gone into a severe depression, isolating herself in her room. Soon after the initial stages of the crisis, the girl became pregnant. She believes if the mother had been more available for support, the pregnancy would not have occurred.

She also found in Los Angeles that younger girls are giving birth. One 11-year-old kept her baby but the girl's mother assumed most of the parenting responsibilities, she recalled.

She also has found that many of the young mothers were responsible for their younger brothers and sisters in their family.

According to Kay Westrum, a social worker with Crittenton Friends in Palo Alto, many young girls keep their pregnancy a secret from their parents for as long as possible. By the time their parents learn of the impending birth, it's too late for a safe abortion.

It's not at all uncommon, Mrs. Kumetat said, to find that many of the mothers of these girls were in the same situation themselves 15 years ago. It's a perpetual cycle

YOUNG FAMILY
Mr. and Mrs. Lance Precour and Lance Jr.

No Longer Visiting Aunt

"Carol is seventeen. Who is she? The nice girl next door, down the street ... perhaps someone even closer to you.

"And now she is enduring such humiliation, such loneliness as she never thought she would know."

That's how the Florence Crittenton Home described the plight of the unwed mother in its introductory brochure 10 years ago. Today, that portrayal of a young woman shut off from her community and sent in disgrace to a hideway until her baby is born is inaccurate.

No longer are the girls and women who live in the discreet, red brick house at 650 Broderick St. in San Francisco — many of them San Mateo County residents — primarily middle-class, good girls gone wrong. According to staff members, they are more likely to be girls who are court wards, on welfare, in the drug culture, are school drop-outs, physically neglected or from a chaotic family.

"We've gone from a middle-class hideout to a place where troubled girls are placed," according to intake social worker Liz Lank.

There are many residents today who don't really have a family of their own, she said. No one in the community cares where they are or how they are doing.

"That kind of girl may have really wanted a child to give her some kind of identity — someone to care about her in the world," she said.

Staff members of the agency, now called Florence Crittenton Services, say a lot more than the name has changed in the last decade.

The residential facility has always accepted pregnant women of all ages, according to staff publicist Mary O'Gara. But, since 1972, Crittenton has been accepting single women who already have children less than 3 years old as well — women who need a structured environment and are placed by the court or are admitted voluntarily.

There have been residents as young as 13 and as old as 40.

In addition, a day care center for children under three has been established. The mothers are both residents and non-residents of that could very well be passed on to an even younger generation.

Most Teen Girls Wanted Their Babies

Who are these young mothers? According to Ms. O'Brien, they are often girls who have less going for them than many of their female high school peers. Many have unhappy relationships at school, are poor or simply have chosen boyfriends who are "losers."

In fact, she said, it's nearly possible to forecast which high school — and sometimes junior high school — girls are likely to become adolescent mothers unless something is done to change the pattern.

According to Edith Odenheimer, Chope social worker, girls with more ambition in life are more likely to elect abortion. The ones who continue their pregnancy usually have far less going for them.

The members of the county Adolescent Parent Committee which meets at Chope agree that too much is provided for the teen-age mothers, robbing them of their responsibilities. As a result, they say, the girls often expect the county, the state and the federal government to go right on suppporting them indefinitely.

"We should hit them in the pocketbook where it hurts," Mrs. Kumetat said.

"We're not helping them to assume the responsibility," Ms. O'Brien added. These girls need to be taught the skills to help pull themselves out of a slump and perhaps away from continual dependence on welfare.

Ms. O'Brien said she talked with girls in her SAM program last year about the possibility of a small charge — perhaps $5 or $10 a month — for infant care to purchase some extra supplies for the program. About half the girls found that outrageous, she said. Their response was, "The county will pay for it."

For many of the girls, having a baby is a lot like playing house, Ms. O'Brien said. Although they listen intently to lessons on baby care and health, they're more concerned about their stretch marks — lines on the abdomen resulting from the stretching of pregnancy. One young mother who went through SAM called Ms. O'Brien in tears only a few days after she got home from the hospital. She was hysterical because her baby cried all the time, wet his pants and made a mess.

"We're getting the kids who haven't had the help they need to assume the responsibility," she added. Some simply haven't grown up yet, Mrs. Odenheimer said.

There's also a surprising amount of peer support for pregnancies today, according to Rosetter Crocket, Planned Parenthood family life coordinator. She even had one 14-year-old come in with her friends. The girl was planning to get pregnant and her friends were vowing to lend their support as babysitters. Often, she said, high school girls will enthusiastically encourage a friend to continue her pregnancy. But, when the baby is born, those friends are off at football games and on dates while the young mother stays at home.

The most frightening aspect of the younger pregnancies, however, is the increasing related social problems, Ms. Cancino related. Adolescents already are going through a period of ups and downs — of emotional and physical changes. The birth of a baby can heighten their depression and confusion.

"They really get bogged down and it really hits them hard in the face that this is not going to be as easy as they thought it would be," Ms. Cancino said.

They are finding that the children of young mothers frequently have a difficult time in school. They are behind from the start — possibly because young mothers often have a narrow educational background, they contend.

And, a mother overwhelmed with unexpected responsibilities is more likely to become an abusive parent, Farris Roberts said.

"It starts a cycle that's difficult to break," she added. It can result in additional pregnancies as the young mother looks for some means of self fulfillment and thinks she can find it in more babies, she said.

Young mothers also are more likely to have complications in their births because their own bodies aren't always fully developed. Premature babies are more common, Mrs. Kumetat said. And medical care for those babies is expensive, she added.

"We have just a horrendous divorce rate," she noted. About half of the girls who have passed through her SAM program have married and about 5 percent of those are still married, she said.

Even the boyfriend who encourages the pregnancy may abandon all financial and moral support after the birth. Even if he is employed, the father under 18 is not required to provide financial support, Ms. Cancino said.

She's seen young fathers who are working 20 or 25 hours a week and living with their parents — but not contributing a cent in child support.

Ms. Roberts said she doesn't believe the stigma has been entirely removed from adolescent parenthood. It's just that services for those persons have increased and, as a result, those who can use the services are "coming out of closet situations."

"Many, many people still feel it's inappropriate," she said.

But, Ms. O'Brien said, as long as very young girls continue to have babies, some effort must be made to encourage the independence and responsibility of those mothers and fathers.

"We're not just financially paying for it," Ms. Cancino said. "We're paying socially for it, too."

Aunt

Crittenton and must be single, on welfare, completing their education and fit the income eligibility requirement, according to Mae Lee Kelley, head day care teacher.

An outreach service for single women of all ages who are pregnant or have pre-school children opened in Palo Alto in 1972, called Crittenton Friends.

A data sheet describes the Florence Crittenton resident of nine years ago:

- The "nice girl" next door who made a mistake, about 19 years old, usually white, with a financially secure family to return to.
- Girls who want a hideout and don't want friends and sometimes even family to know about the baby. She tells correspondents, "I'm visiting an aunt."
- A girl who wears a wedding ring if she goes out in public.
- A girl who usually gives up her baby for adoption.
- A girl from a family who can usually pay most or all of the fee — now about $1,000 a month.

But, today, staff members say, the majority of the residents are 13 to 17 years old and often from a minority background. They usually make no secret of their pregnancy and they usually keep their babies.

"We tend to have the really troubled kind of girl for whom pregnancy is just another thing," Ms. Lank said.

Today, she said, it's rare that a young mother will relinquish her baby for adoption. Not one of the young mothers last year gave up her baby for adoption, although there were two earlier this year.

The day care center is an appropriate extension of Florence Crittenton since many girls are still trying to pull their lives together by finishing school or getting job training after their baby is born, Ms. Kelley said.

The non-profit agency also got authorization this year from its board of directors to provide a residence for adolescent girls who may never have been pregnant but need a place to stay which is structured and comfortable. It also served temporarily this year as an adolescent shelter care home for foster children when one of San Francisco's group homes closed down.

The board, according to Ms. Lank, is now looking at still other potential uses of the facility — such as opening the doors to non-resident teen-age girls as a day care program where they can get counseling and other help but still live on their own.

In fact, she said, the residential section is only half full while the day care program has reached its capacity of children.

"Our success stories are girls who became adults after they became mothers," said Ms. Kelley. "In some cases the best thing that happened to these girls was getting pregnant and going to Florence Crittenton."

It's a tremendous investment in money, time and caring but an important one for the girl who can become independent for the first time, she said.

Little Chance to Adopt a Baby

Childless, married couples stand little chance of adopting an infant in San Mateo County today if they aren't already on the Adoption Services waiting list.

The county stopped adding names to the list of potential parents of infants about a year ago and some of the 30 couples already on the list have been waiting four years, according to Mildred Tyler, supervisor.

"We just don't have the infants to place," Mrs. Tyler said.

State officials, Mrs. Tyler said, attribute the situation to increased birth control, legalized abortion and acceptance of single parenthood.

The county adoption agency is thrusting its energy into finding homes for older children, handicapped children and racially mixed children.

In 1970, 132 children — both infants and older children — were placed with families in San Mateo County.

By 1975, that number had dropped to 29 — and only 15 of those were infants.

And, in 1976, 22 were adopted — 14 of them infants.

There is a great eagerness by many couples to be parents of babies and raise them through the infancy period, Mrs. Tyler said. Adoption officials are finding that many parents are even traveling out of the country in search of a baby to adopt.

In the meantime, parentless infants continue to be a rarity. Once a couple's name is placed on the waiting list, a pre-adoption study process begins, Mrs. Tyler explained. It seems unfair, she added, to raise the hopes and expectations of childless couples by adding their names to that list.

BEDWETTERS?

Let them have a dry bed!

The greatest gift you can give a bedwetter and the rest of the family is an end to this serious problem. Bedwetting is serious— it can cause complicated psychological problems that last a lifetime. It's so needless, because bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease can be ended. Phone for our FREE BROCHURE.

As advertised in Parents' Magazine.

THE GOURMET By Petrini's Presents

—Ham Hocks and Beans—

Your entire entree in one dish.

One lb. small white beans
1½ to 2 quarts warm water
4 to 6 pieces Ham Hocks (depending on size)
one small bell pepper chopped
one medium onion chopped
2 Tbls. butter
½ tsp. garlic powder
1 large tomato
¼ tsp. ginger
¼ tsp. turmeric
1 tsp. ground coriander
2 tsp. beau monde seasoning
½ tsp. pepper
1 Tbl. lemon juice

Wash beans: Place beans and hocks in 1½ to 2 quarts warm water, bring to a boil for 5 min. Cover and let set one hr. Skim off excess fat, then simmer approximately one hour longer or until beans and hocks are almost cooked.

Saute in butter the onions and bell pepper 8 to 10 minutes. Stir in garlic powder, ginger, turmeric, coriander, beau monde, pepper, and add to beans and hocks. Peel tomato, cut into pieces and add to beans and hocks. Continue cooking approximately one hour longer or until beans and hocks are tender. For additional flavor add 2 tsp. curry powder to above spices. Just before serving stir in lemon juice.

6 to 8 servings.

North County Well-Baby Help Needed

RNs and LVNs are being sought by the American Red Cross to volunteer their expertise to assist public health nurses at well-baby clinics in north San Mateo County (Daly City, South San Francisco) and in Pacifica.

These volunteer nurses will assist by weighing and measuring, making appointments, etc.

The clinics are held once a month.

For further information regarding clinics hours and other specifics about volunteering, nurses are asked to call Red Cross Nursing and Health Programs at 343-4561.

NEW RECREATION BUILDING BEGUN (Dave Dornias Photo)

Groundbreaking for the new Gellert Park recreation building in Daly City was at ceremonies last Friday. The building at the 21-acre park is styled to be compatible with the existing library building and is the third federally funded project at the park. The $254,000 building will include a 2,200-square-foot recreation room, recreation office, kitchen, storage rooms and an office for the Serramonte Homeowners Association, which paid $10,000 to the city for a 15-year lease. Pictured, left to right, are Roseann Emerson, Betty Martinez, Pearl Thompson (kneeling), Henry Pieroni (kneeling) and Dorothy Jereczek of the homeowners association; Daly City Mayor Al Teglia; Recreation Commissioner Sharon Smith; Councilman Victor Kyriakis; Chamber of Commerce Manager Pete Markovich (kneeling); and Chamber President Al Simonetti.

Trial Ordered in Colma Mart Suit

A request by Colma officials for a summary judgment in the suit involving city actions in a proposed K-Mart development was rejected last Tuesday.

Superior Court Judge Gerald Ragan told attorneys representing the city, the K-Mart developer and opponents of the development that he wants the matter to go to trial.

The trial has been set for 9:30 a.m. Dec. 12.

The suit, brought by Colma resident Domenic Martini, asks that the City Council hold a referendum to get voters' opinions on a zoning change the council granted developer E. N. Maisel last spring.

The council declined to certify a petition signed by 71 persons, one-third of the small city's registered voters, calling for a referendum. The petition was judged by city legal representatives to be lacking in proper procedural requirements.

Attorney James Paul Green, who represents Martini in the matter, had asked to be able to subpoena all of Colma's councilmen and its city clerk.

But Judge Ragan ruled Tuesday in South San Francisco that Green will be able to subpoena only Councilman Fred Garbini and City Clerk Frances Liston.

The ruling was a result of a motion by Colma attorney Roger Peters to suppress subpoena action of the entire City Council.

He said Mrs. Liston and Garbini will testify at the trial concerning the city's actions in the petition matter.

Peters said he requested a summary judgment on the suit to save the city "time and expense of a trial."

The two motions before the court Tuesday were the latest in a lengthy series of filings by the city, developer and opponent. The trial has been postponed several times.

The K-Mart store and office space complex would be located on a 10-acre site on El Camino Real and Serramonte Boulevard. The Michigan developer holds an option on the land now occupied by Pacific Nurseries, but the project has been stalled since its approval last April.

Green, a San Francisco lawyer, has been the most vocal opponent of the development, charging that it would cause flooding and parking problems and would detract from the cemetery city's quiet atmosphere.

employees in the consolidated department.

After consulting with a representative group of employees, an 11-page questionnaire was developed by the firm that asked comment on such statements as:

- My superior performs his/her job well.
- My supervisor seems to know who his/her supervisor is.
- I think that there is opportunity for advancement in my division.

The firm tabulated the anonymous responses and gave Rowe a report on the findings.

Rowe then met with each employee in the department privately before making his decision.

"No one has been laid off or fired," the city manager emphasized. "No conclusions have been reached on consolidation."

Rowe said the responsibility for the engineering division will not be an added burden on the city manager's office.

"Shorter lines of communication will make less work instead of more work," he stressed.

He said a benefit of the temporary arrangement will be "to establish new lines of responsibility, increasing the authority of the division head and section chiefs."

The city manager also said Clarence Mobley, assistant city engineer, will report directly to him, while traffic engineer Keith Dellaway, inspection head Clem Schultz and engineer Huat Tan will answer to Mobley.

Rowe said he has not decided how long the engineering division will be under his wing.

"If it is not consolidated, it will be reassigned to public works," he said.

Macabee has had little comment on the subject of departmental changes since summer.

Rowe was due to make a formal announcement of the change to the consolidated department today.

Citizens

trucks through twice?" she said.

City Manager David Rowe said the amount of tonnage processed at the transfer station will be checked against Daly City and Pacifica figures at the Ox Mountain dump.

Residents Julius Castelan and George Kirchhubel said they were concerned about the considerable time that the City of Daly City will have to put into billing and accounting work.

"I don't see the reason to hire more and more people in our finance department," Kirchhubel said.

Rowe replied that the operation essentially will be the city's and that consideration has not been given to adding a billing charge that would be passed on to residents.

A lone expression of support for the station came from Jane Powell, a candidate for Daly City City Council and member of several city boards.

"It certainly would be an advantage to the city to have this building to keep control of the garbage," Mrs. Powell said.

Firm

customers are expected to go up, too.

The transfer station, to be used for preparing garbage for disposal at the Ox Mountain dump near Half Moon Bay, will be built at the site where the Daly City Scavenger Co. presently operates a dump.

That dump will be closed Feb. 15 on order of the Regional Water Quality Control Board, because of pollution fears at the slide-prone coastal site.

When the dump closes, Daly City will enter into an interim agreement to handle disposal through the San Francisco transfer station and the Mountain View dump.

Pacifica's Coastside Scavenger Co. probably will haul its garbage directly to the Ox Mountain dump for the interim period.

Hupf said it will take another five months to get the station in operation. Construction probably will be completed in May.

The attorney said the company still is reviewing the construction bids in an attempt to reduce costs.

Officials said they are hopeful the $9.75 per ton Ox Mountain dump fee will go down to $6 within two years. The fee, set by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, is to decrease when dump use exceeds 300 tons daily.

Daly City and Pacifica will add almost 200 tons daily to the 50 tons per day now being disposed of at the landfill.

Construction is expected to begin on the transfer station when the Daly City Scavenger Co. and Coastside Scavenger Co. formally approve the pact.

Particular 'For Sale' Sign Causes Stir

Former San Mateo County supervisor Jean Fassler and her husband Joseph caused a stir when they put their two-bedroom Pacifica beachfront home up for sale for $300,000 last month.

Pacifica real estate agents told The Times that the Fassler house would set a new record in local real estate sales if sold at that price.

The state has indicated that it wants to buy the property, which is valued at $98,000 by the County Assessor's Office, as part of a beach acquisitions project.

Mrs. Fassler said she and her husband knew the state was looking at the property, but had discussed selling it long before the state came into the picture.

She commented that she put the house up for sale after her doctor recommended that she look for a home in a warmer climate.

"I have to have daily swimming," she explained, noting that it would be impractical to install a pool at her Pacifica home. The swimming, she said, is recommended therapy for her ailing back.

The subject of Mrs. Fassler's health came up last month when she testified at a Worker's Compensation Appeals Board hearing that she was forced to retire as a county supervisor because of a back ailment that was aggravated, in part, by prolonged sitting at board meetings during her 12 years as a supervisor.

It was announced Friday that she will be awarded worker's compensation, but the amount of the award was not stated.

The Fassiers were officially informed Oct. 31 that the state Department of Parks and Recreation intends to purchase their house at 5400 Cabrillo Highway.

They listed their home with the Portola Valley real estate firm of Hare, Brewer and Kelley during the second week of November.

The state intends to spend about $1 million — as far as the money will go — on three portions of Pedro Beach. The portion of the beach that Pacifica and the state have chosen as the most desirable contains the Fassler house.

Mrs. Fassler said that she and her husband purchased the house as a two-room cabin "38 or 39 years ago" and have added on to it through the years.

The house has 1,600 square feet of inside space, additional outside decking, two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a two-car garage and 300 feet of ocean frontage.

Max Rolih, the Fassiers' real estate agent, said the Fassiers are not "going counter to any governmental rules" by putting their home up for sale.

Although he talked with Pacifica, state and county officials, Rolih said, he has been unable to learn when the state will buy the land.

"There is no legal or other action we can find that indicates that the state is going to proceed in any expeditious manner," Rolih observed.

He said the consensus of the officials he spoke with was that such land purchases by the state take several years.

Richard May, branch manager of acquisitions for the state Department of Parks and Recreation, said the state is definitely going to buy part of Pedro Beach. "We just don't know how much," he remarked.

May disclo ed that the state might begin purchasing property in Pacifica as early as this spring, after it completes appraisals of the land and determines how far its $1 million will go.

Mrs. Fassler Wins Benefits

A workers compensation administrative law judge has awarded former county supervisor Jean Fassler $19,000 in disability benefits and past medical costs for back injuries she claimed were incurred during her tenure as a supervisor.

Judge Alfred Williams found Mrs. Fassler to be 46.5 per cent disabled and thus eligible for the award.

Mrs. Fassler claimed that during six years of her 12 years as a supervisor she sustained accidents on the job that aggravated her back condition. These accidents included an automobile collision; two incidents of falling off a chair and prolonged sitting at board of supervisor meetings.

The former supervisor testified at a workers compensation hearing in San Francisco Nov. 11 that the accidents caused her to be permanently disabled and forced her to resign as a supervisor in January of this year.

Judge Williams determined that Mrs. Fassler will receive $2,677.50 at $70 per week for the cumulative injury due to sitting and stress during her employment.

She also will receive $2,415 payable at $52.50 per week for the automobile collision and for each of the chair mishaps.

Much of the remainder of the award went for payment of medical bills incurred earlier this year. Judge Williams also awarded a 10 percent penalty to all the awards, because the State compensation Insurance Fund failed to pay the medical bills despite an agreement to do so.

Mrs. Fassler, who is 58 years old, also has filed a permanent disability claim with the County Retirement Fund. It was expected that her claim would be heard after the workers Compensation proceedings were completed.

If Mrs. Fassler's claim for permanent disability is sustained by the County Retirement Board she will receive $12,683 a year for life.

Mrs. Fassler announced in January 1976 she would not run for re-election to the Board of Supervisors. A year later when her term expired and she left the board, the former supervisor filed a claim for permanent disability with both the Worker's Compensation Appeals Board and with the County Board of Retirement.

It is expected that the Retirement Board will hear Mrs. Fassler's claim after the Appeals Board matter is settled.

By law the Retirement Board cannot set a percentage of disability, a provision allowed by law to the Appeals Board. The Retirement Board can only determine if Mrs. Fassler is or is not permanently disabled.

If the Retirement Board sustains Mrs. Fassler's claim, she will receive one-half the salary she earned in her last full year as a supervisor, or $12,683 a year for life.

In both her Appeals Board and Retirement Board claims Mrs. Fassler cited five accidents that occurred between 1970 and 1976 that rendered her incapable of performing her duties as a supervisor.

They included: a fall at the Hall of Justice in February 1971; an automobile accident during working hours on Dec. 29, 1970; a slip on a freshly waxed floor at the Hall of Justice that caused her to twist her back on Feb. 24, 1971; trauma from prolonged sitting at board meetings from 1971-1973; trauma from prolonged sitting at board meetings from July 1973 to Jan. 22, 1976.

At the hearing Nov. 10 before Judge Williams, Mrs. Fassler testified that her back hurt so badly in January 1976 that she was forced to give up her seat on the board.

She further testified that she initially injured her back in a fall in the mid 1950s, but stated that the injury was made worse by her service on the Board of Supervisors.

She stated that she has worn a back brace regularly since 1970. She also said she is unable to do any heavy lifting and employs help for household chores at her home in Pacifica.

The reason that San Mateo County was represented at the hearing is because the county became self-insured for workers compensation benefits in 1975. Prior to that time the county was insured by the State Compensation Insurance Board.

Mrs. Fassler's claims cover a prior from 1970 to 1976.

Enrollment Slips

7 Pacifica Schools May Be Shut Down

Up to seven schools may be closed by 1980 in the Laguna Salada Union School District if the Board of Trustees agrees with a report submitted Thursday by Superintendent James Brien.

There are 15 schools in the district.

Brien made his recommendation after projecting school enrollment in the district through 1981. He predicts there will be only 4,051 students in 1981, compared to 8,362 who were registered in 1972.

He stressed that his enrollment calculations for coming years are "educated guesses," based on the best information available. "If they are challenged, I would like you to know these figures were arrived at without malice of forethought," he told the board.

Specifically, Brien envisions closing one school in San Bruno by September 1979 (Pacific Heights or Portola School), one school at the north end of town by September 1979 (Fairmont, Westview, San Andreas or Pacific Manor) and one school along the coast by September 1978 (Sharp Park or Vallemar).

He said one school in the back of the Linda Mar Valley could be closed by September 1978 (Cabrillo, Pedro Valley, Linda Mar or Sanchez) and a second might be closed in 1980.

In addition, he said he believes one school in the front of the Linda Mar Valley could be closed by September 1979 (Crespi, Ortega or Oddstad).

Among the advantages Brien cited for closing schools are financial savings on salaries and maintenance, fewer combination classes, more flexibility in assigning pupils, better utilization of specialists and "improved curriculum from more homogenous grouping of pupils."

He said disadvantages of closing schools include the cost of additional transportation, loss of neighborhood schools, control problems if schools are crowded and loss of pupil identity in large schools.

Brien commented that some districts operate schools with only 100 to 200 pupils, a practice that Laguna Salada may choose to follow.

In lieu of closing schools, Brien said trustees could decide to have one principal in charge of two small schools or teaching principals at small schools, eliminate a school clerk, limit the amount of classroom space used so maintenance would be reduced and possibly lease other parts of the school, establish satellie kitchens to provide meals for several schools and cut special services to small schools.

Trustees asked Brien to provide more data in order to help them make their decision on which schools, if any, to close. They said they want a report on the cost of maintaining each school, which buildings would be leased most easily and housing requirements of alternative programs that the district is considering, such as structured schooling.

Trustee John Plato requested information on the positive benefits of closing schools.

"I'd like to be able to tell parents, for example, if we close five schools, we could save enough money to do something else," he said.

He cautioned the board not to do away with schools that the district later may need, because the birth rate appears to be climbing again.

years, that I'm going to miss fire fighting and the comradery of fire fighters. You can't be associated with something that long and not miss it."

Zylker sees his job as of one of education.

"In the future, I see a move towards more automatic fire protection that will take the full responsibility off the citizen and the fire department," Zylker said. "We can't provide 100 percent protection. Others have to share."

Zylker admitted he's not really satisfied with the department's ability to reach all South San Franciscans.

"Two-thirds of all our fires are in the residential area," Zylker said. "We hope we can get the residential sector to do the same type of job as the industrial sector."

Both Zylker and Toellner praised the efforts of South San Francisco's industrial section in fire fighting. Almost every industrial site has had sprinklers installed; many companies have their own fire brigades, they pointed out.

"We have a lot of confidence in the people in the industrial sector," Zylker said.

People in the United States, he added, generally take too much for granted.

"We misuse electricity, we improperly store materials, we work in garages with flammable liquids," he explained.

Toellner and Zylker cited the need for more fire prevention work.

"We have our fire companies committed to year-around fire inspection," Zylker said, "and we're committed to more intensified fire prevention work."

"We feel a great deal of pride in our fire prevention work. It's the direction fire service must go."

When Jan. 15 rolls around, Toellner indicated he will have lost no sleep over the appointment of Zylker.

"I believe the City Council made an excellent choice. He's been my right-hand man for the past five years and I know he'll do an excellent job for the citizens of this community."

D.C. Baptist Choir Sings

The Daly City Westlake Community Baptist Church Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Jack Palmer, with organist Ivyle Lederer and pianist Lorraine Taber will present its third annual Living Christmas Tree Program Dec. 18, Dec. 20 and Dec. 22 at 8 p.m.

A large Christmas tree is constructed in the sanctuary holding the choir. A concert called "Christmas Festival," by Jimmie Owens and Otis Skillings, accompanied and enhanced by lighting effects, will be presented. The public is invited.

Oceana Musical Show Thursday

The performing groups of the Music Department at Oceana High School will have its annual Winter Concert in the main theater at Skyline College Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. The major performing ensembles, the Oceana Jazz Band, newly-formed Treble Jazz Band, newly-formed Treble Jazz Choir and the Concert Band will present a varied evening of musical entertainment as well as the traditional sounds of the holiday season.

The Oceana Jazz Band will play music ranging from the traditional "big band" swing sounds of Glen Miller by performing "In the Mood" to the contemporary sounds of the Helen Reddy hit "Somewhere in the Night".

The Treble Jazz Choir will sing "Ease on Down the Road" from the musical "The Wiz", "I Don't Know How To Love Him" from "Jesus Christ Superstar", and "Back Bay Shuffle" by Carl Strommen, who also composed the jazz swing choir arrangement of "All About the Blues" which the Choir will also perform.

To conclude the concert the Symphonic Band will offer a varied presentation of music which will include the "Band of Gold" concert march, "Flourish for Wind Band" by the English composer Ralph Vaughan-Williams, "Music for a Carnival" by Clare Grundman" and the "Fanfare for Rocky" from the motion picture soundtrack. Marching encores will include selections from "Jaxxmobile", "Bugsy Malone", "Place of the Rock" and "The Incredible Baron von Rip 'Em Off!".

Following the winter concert a reception will be held for all in the cafeteria in the Student Union Building. Tickets for the concert may be obtained by calling 993-6200, ext., 32, or at the door the night of the performance for $1.50. Proceeds from the winter concert will help to pay the expense of the annual spring tour which this year will be to Southern California and a performance at Magic Mountain amusement park in Los Angeles.

Notice of Public Hearing

Notice is hereby given, that pursuant to Airports Commission Resolution 77-0290 a public hearing will be held at Room 402, Central Terminal, San Francisco International Airport, December 9, 1977, at 2:30 o'clock p.m., by the Director of Airports, to receive public comment on the following:

PROPOSED NOISE ABATEMENT REGULATIONS AT SAN FRANCISCO INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

1. In order to operate at San Francisco International Airport commercial jet powered transport type aircraft must be certified under Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards, replaced, or must be scheduled to receive retrofit modifications to comply with Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards prior to January 1, 1985.

2. In order to operate at San Francisco International Airport any commercial jet powered transport type aircraft not presently operating at San Francisco International Airport must be certified under Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards.

3. Airlines certified by the Civil Aeronautics Board or the California Public Utilities Commission to serve at San Francisco International Airport will file at the office of the Director of Airports, San Francisco International Airport, within 90 days of the adoption of this regulation a listing by aircraft registration number of all aircraft in their respective fleet which may be operated at San Francisco International Airport and which do not comply with Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards. New listings are to be filed at the office of the Director of Airports, San Francisco International Airport annually thereafter. Each succeeding list must demonstrate a continuing pattern of reduction in the total number of aircraft not complying with Federal Aviation Regulations — Part 36 Noise Standards.

Written testimony may be submitted at the public hearing or delivered to the Director of Airports, San Francisco International Airport, San Francisco, CA 94128, prior to the public hearing.

Oral testimony during this public hearing will be limited to five minutes per speaker.

All testimony will be considered by the Director of Airports prior to submission of the Proposed Noise Abatement Regulations at San Francisco International Airport to the Airports Commission for adoption.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Bay Meadows in The Homestretch

The autumn thoroughbred season at BAY MEADOWS is approaching the homestretch, with all records certain to be broken by the time curtain is rung down Dec. 22. There are four restaurants in operation every day at the San Mateo course — two in the turf club and one each in the clubhouse and grandstand. It is one of the largest catering operations under one roof in the West, hiring some 163 cooks, waiters, waitresses, counter personnel, bartenders, etc. In addition to the multiple facilities in the grandstand, clubhouse and turf club areas, all types of food and beverages are dispensed from a new building in the infield. "Central Park," as the infield recreational area is known, has all that is necessary for the enjoyment of a day at the races. There are betting windows, closed circuit television and picnic tables, plus an extensive area for the children to engage in all kinds of recreational activity. The infield will be open on the two remaining Saturdays of the season, weather permitting, and it is an ideal place for a family outing. Entrance to the infield is through a tunnel at the north end of the grandstand and it costs just $2.25 for an adult to enter the area. Children 16 and under are admitted free of charge . . . If you're looking for just the right spot to take your out-of-town visitors this holiday season, FINOCCHIO'S world famed night spot has been enticing visitors for years. The fabulous EVE-ETTES dance and sing in many exciting numbers each evening. LA VERNE CUMMINGS, with his beautiful voice and gowns, is a sight to behold. LORI SHANNON (Archie Bunker's favorite), VAL DE VERE and RUSSELL REED are among the performers who bring chuckles and smiles. Emcee CARROLL WALLACE sets the mood for each of the four shows nightly, except Monday . . . With the holiday season upon us, many party planners are making early reservations at NICK'S restaurant-lounge in Rockaway Beach. A varied menu, the rugged California coast for a view, and live entertainment are good reasons for any party occasion . . . "Business is really brisk," reports MEL CICERO, co-owner of the BAYHILL LOUNGE, San Bruno, which is now in its fourth year. Mel says the luncheon menu is the best they have ever featured, and THE TRI SOUNDS continue to pull the Tuesday-through-Saturday night dance crowds from 9 p.m. Now on the agenda are plans for a big New Year's Eve Party. Plan on being there . . . Double for the price of singles is the policy during the evening cocktail hours (4 to 7 p.m.) at Coyote Point's CASTAWAY. These are genuine doubles, poured in 14-ounce Mai Tai glasses. Hors d'oeuvres, also. On Monday night, pro football with Frank, Howard and Dandy Don . . . MURRAY LEHR, head gardener at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant in San Francisco, has an early Christmas gift for dinner patrons. He is giving away free tickets to see the dazzling new musical comedy show starring Denise Kilbourne and guest entertainers in the adjoining LEHR'S CABARET THEATER. So come for dinner tonight at Lehr's Greenhouse — and stay for the show . . . If you still have room for dessert after a sumptuous prime rib dinner at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of Geary Street's "Theater Row" in San Francisco, don't miss their delectable English Trifle. It is brandied and sherried pound cake topped with fruit, crumbled macaroons, whipped cream and almonds . . . When ordering specialties such as Veal Parmigiana and Chicken Cacciatore at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant, allow 20 minutes extra for preparation. Served with a choice of spaghetti, ravioli, vegetable or potatoes. All varieties of fresh fish when available . . . "TERRY'S restaurants, located only one mile apart in Vallejo (one on the left side of Freeway 180, the other on the right side), are popular food and rest stops enroute to South Lake Tahoe's gaming and entertainment excitement. BARNEY'S free coupons are available at both restaurants . . . Pepper Steak is served as a complete dinner or a la carte at ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach. Dinner includes soup, green salad, choice of fries, spaghetti or ravioli, French bread, and ice cream. And it is available seven days a week . . . Basketball superstar Ricky Barry is an almost-nightly dinner guest at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, whenever the Warriors are in town. Rick loves Phil's extra choice New York steaks, cut to the exact thickness he wants . . . "RICH" TRAINOR of SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City is at it again.' Decorating, that is, with boughs of holly and every Yuletide reminder imaginable. To do a good job, says "Rich," it takes at least a week. An air of casual refinement and friendliness attracts guests from around the globe. A recent guest from Greece was Princess Marina. 49er greats Jim Plunkett and Tom Wittum were among the local celebrities to dine here last Week . . . PHIL and RICKI ANDRE are the congenial owners of the ROUND TABLE PIZZA in Daly City. Besides pizza variety, football fans are finding the giant size TV screen a welcome addition for viewing sports events.

Sam Trans Replies to State Charges of Hiring Bias

By RICK SULLIVAN

Charges made to a state Senate subcommittee that SamTrans lacks an affirmative action plan and has failed to involve handicapped persons in transportation planning were rebutted Wednesday by SamTrans General Manager John T. Mauro.

The manager told members of the Senate Committee on Public Utilities, Transit and Energy at a Redwood City hearing that SamTrans has an active affirmative action plan and has in fact formed a special committee of handicpped persons to test new buses due to be delivered in January.

Committee Senators John Foran, D-San Mateo/San Francisco, and Alfred Alquist, D-Santa Clara, called the hearing to take testimony on recent charges that many Bay Area transit districts are not complying with state and federal laws which require that poor and handicapped persons be involved in transit planning.

Jack Ybarra, a consultant for the Metropolitan Transportation Commission, testified that ethnic minorities in San Mateo County have reported to him "their futile efforts" to correct numerous deficiencies in the SamTrans operation."

He listed these deficiencies as:

• Lack of an affirmative action hiring plan acceptable to the minority community, which he claimed was a violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

• Absence of citizen participation prior to the development of the SamTrans route system, a violation, he claimed, of federal regulations.

• Lack of an ongoing effort to involve the transit-dependent population in the county in SamTrans planning efforts.

Ybarra cited similar deficiencies in other districts in the Bay Area, including those in Santa Clara and Solano Counties.

"It was apparent to me," said Ybarra, "during my survey of the transit districts that blatant violations of existing state and federal laws and regulations are taking place and continue to take place.

"These violations have gone unchecked primarily because there is no person or agency to monitor local transit operators to take the responsibility of requiring compliance with law," Ybarra stated.

Earlier this year and late last year, handicapped persons appeared before the SamTrans Board of Directors demanding that the district purchase buses which can accommodate the physically disabled.

Mauro told the senators that the district responded to the complaints with the initiation of a dial-a-ride program called Redi-Wheels. Under the program, seven buses operating five days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. pick up handicapped persons at their homes and take them to their destinations.

The manager explained that the district has dragged its feet in purchasing a complete fleet of buses equipped with lifts and other special equipment for the handicapped because the equipment has so far not been proven to be completely safe.

"We have been reluctant," Mauro said, "to invest millions of dollars in equipment that may not prove safe. I am always very concerned when I am put in a position to be among the group to purchase newly designed equipment."

Mauro, however, told the committee that because of the intense complaints by the handicapped population, district directors agreed to order 24 of the 74 new buses due to be delivered the first of next year equipped with lifts to accommodate those in wheelchairs.

The district, Mauro said, paid $9,000 extra for the lifts, bringing the cost of a single bus to $92,000.

"We took a $2.2 million gamble," said the manager.

James Donald, with the state Department of Rehabilitation, urged the committee to propose new legislation to put more teeth in current state requirements that transit districts must order lifts on all the buses they order or face termination of state funding.

Mauro argued against the suggestion.

He argued that the technology has not yet been devised to produce safe equipment for the handicapped, and that it thus would be unfair to penalize transit districts for not scurrying to purchase inferior, perhaps unsafe, equipment.

As to the affirmative action charge by Ybarra, Mauro responded that he "takes great pride" in the district's hiring plan. He said some 39 percent of all district workers are minorities, 19 percent of whom are black.

He testified that, to his knowledge, Ybarra had never contacted SamTrans regarding the district's affirmative action plan.

In response to a question by Sen. Alquist, Mauro said very few handicapped persons have expressed any interest in serving on transit advisory committees.

And, the manager added, although the district is spending hundreds of thousands of dollars to serve the transit-dependent population in the county, few individuals use the system.

The district's Redi-Wheels program, he said, transports an average of 139 handicapped persons per month and a maximum of 12 persons per day. The cost to the district of the Redi-Wheels program, Mauro noted, is $5.90 per ride. The cost to the district on a bus along the regular routes is $1.07.

Terra Nova High will host the first Tiger Invitational Girls' Basketball Tournament Dec. 9 and 10 to kick off the local girls' basketball season.

The North Peninsula League's defending champions will be hosting Crestmoor (MPL), and Menlo-Atherton and Mercy of Burlingame (both of the SPAL).

Crestmoor, coached by Sheryl Ladwig, finished second to San Mateo in its league's playoffs last year. They are led by junior Carol Rishe, who was a second team All-County selection last season.

MERCY, coached by Naomi Tuite, was last year's Region I runner-up and has four returning starters, led by center Liz Bruno.

Pam Wimberly, who was head coach of the North team in last year's CCS All-Star game, says that her Menlo-Atherton squad is strengthened by the transfer of Shelly Teter, an All-County player, from San Mateo High.

Jim Soden's Tigers are led by All-County guard Beck Myers, only a junior, who averaged 18.7 points a game. Three other starters also are returning.

Soden believes the tournament may be a preview of post-season battles for dominance in Regions I and II in the Central Coast Section.

Game times and pairings for the tournament are:

Friday (Dec. 9), 6:30 — Consolation game; 8 p.m. Championship.

SPEAKING OF women in athletics, and risking being called a male you-know-what — and further realizing that that recent television celeb rity "Battle of the Sexes" was strictly show-biz and probably specifically designed to end in a tie — it still rankles the purist in me that women want to compete with men in athletics only if they are given handicaps.

Come on, girls, either you is or you ain't. Handicaps are meaningful only in gambling. But they don't determine equality.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Need I say it, or isn't it already apparent. The Warriors, seemingly like all San Francisco professional sports teams, seem to lack the killer instinct. When they have the enemy down, they just don't seem willing to keep him down and grind him under. Seems they'd rather give him a fighting chance. And that only happened in Errol Flynn swashbucklers.

WE ALL KNOW why soccer is a good sport for the masses. Size means little. Equipment is cheap. While, as in all sports, natural athletic ability is a premium product, in soccer a determined kid can get by with a minimum of it.

But a Peninsula soccer parent recently gave me another, unique reason for the viability of soccer as a sport for youth.

> "You don't get the parental interference in soccer that you do in Little League and Pop Warner football, because the parents don't know as much about soccer as they do baseball and football.

To most parents, soccer is a foreign sport, so they simply don't feel qualified to criticize or second-guess the coaches. And this takes a lot of pressure off the kids."

SAN FRANCISCO State placed six players on the All Far Western Conference team, the most in several years and perhaps the first signal of better years to come since the campus riots in the '60's diluted the usual flow of athletic talent into State.

The chosen players were offensive tackle Steve Cogan; wide receiver Tony Watson; running back Dan McCrone; defensive lineman Dean Triggas; linebacker Reggie Redmond, and defensive back Frank Duncan.

AS THIS IS written, the 49ers have the third best defense in the NFL, and at that, only three yards worse than second-place Atlanta and not too far behind Dallas.

Considering the fact that one of the NFL's worst offenses (even Atlanta's offense is better) keeps so much pressure on the defense, this is an amazing statistic. More amazing, they're second to Dallas in pass defense, despite the loss of the great Jimmy Johnson.

Of course, the 49ers aren't the third best in the league in fewest points allowed, but that's because offensive mistakes have accounted for many scores by the opposition.

At least the 49ers have a base to build upon next season . . . when, and if, they hire somebody who knows how to make an offense respectable.

ASIDE FROM the fact that the San Francisco District Attorney's Office was stupid enough to even try to make something of Bruce Jenner and Wheaties (and give Wheaties publicity they couldn't have bought), it seems here that the fool who wanted to make a cause of it never had a case to begin with.

Never, in the television ads I've seen, has Jenner said he eats Wheaties. All he says is that they're on his table every morning.

A READER WRITES: I wrote on Nov. 2 that there was nothing wrong with Graig Nettles' bowling over Kansas City second baseman Frank White in the AL playoffs, because the base path belongs to the runner, and also because there are no rules which state that a runner must slide into the bag — which commentator Tony Kubek seemed to indicate when he felt interference should have been called.

Reader Heinie Thompson of Burlingame agrees, and adds, "There aren't enough players who slide into first base. Many times they could avoid the tag."

Thompson also adds an interesting sidelight to the point I made about the Nettles-George Brett fight in that same playoffs. I believed, because Brett instituted the attack, that he should have been thrown out of the game. Thompson thinks he should have been called out, anyway, because he left base, and as far as he knows, "there is no automatic time-out for fighting!"

THOMPSON ALSO cites a recent column by San Mateo Times Sports Editor Jack Bluth, who quoted Philadelphia Eagles head coach Dick Vermeil, who recently said that he's going to ask the NFL to change its policy of naming players who are caught breaking rules, because it is "unjust" and "puts unnecessary pressure on them."

Bluth retorted, in part, "What's unjust about justice? . . . If a football player can't stand that kind of 'pressure' . . . he's no professional . . the new wrinkle is necessary. The intent is to discourage rule infractions which disrupt the continuity of the game. It also . . . (gives) spectators information they are entitled to . . ."

Thompson, a former basketball official, agrees with Bluth, noting, "I can remember well . . . we had to shout the number of the offender and point to him. In addition, he had to raise his arm . . .

"So what's the difference? Why should it put any more pressure on a football player?"

Thompson wants to know what I think. I think I agree with him and Bluth.

Skyline Five Wins Tournament

By FRED BAER

CUPERTINO — Skyline College continues to build its impressive state-leading community college basketball win streak, topping some of the better large division colleges in the process.

The Trojans ran their season record to 5-0 by defeating a pair of good Division I schools over the weekend, including host De Anza, 69-63 for the title of the De Anza Festival Classic.

Skyline has now won 15 straight contests, 14 against collegiate foes. That also includes three straight tournaments titles — including the state Division II title (small colleges) last March in Fresno.

But the only opportunity for local fans to see the Trojans at home this month comes Wednesday when they host Los Medanos at 7:30 p.m.

Host De Anza, which opened its season just Friday with a talented but young team, did not appear quite ready to match strides with the polished Trojans — but will get another shot at them in the opener of next week's Cabrillo Tournament.

Saturday's game was an even contest at the outset but Skyline center Brad Levesque's jumper with four minutes left in the half put the Trojans on top for good at 29-28, and they led 35-32 at the half, with veteran guard Ted Scott contributing 21 points during that period.

Leading the fast break, Scott extended the Skyline-margin to ten points — and his own total to 29 — in the first five minutes after the intermission, before taking a seven-minute rest. The Westmoor grad finished with 35 points.

Forward Jerry McNeil's scoring and board work helped Skyline increase its lead to 59-43 with 8:35 left. Then Don guard Dennis Elkins and forward Howard Fine hit outside jumpers down the stretch to make it a six-point game the final two minutes.

Those two De Anza players joined McNeil and Levesque plus College of Marin's Mike Hogan on the all-tournament team. McNeil was also chosen the outstanding player of the tourney. But ironically Scott did not make the all-tourney squad.

That may have been because Scott tallied only 12 points in the tourney opener against Marin. "Scott was tired last night," noted Trojan coach Lyle Newcomer. "McNeil had a great game against Marin (24 points) and played a good game tonight too."

McNeil, who is also a soph from Westmoor, scored 12 points in the finale and led the Trojans with nine rebounds.

The 6-6 Levesque, a freshman from St. Ignatius, was the key man up front both nights. His season field goal percentage is .689 (31 of 45).

Soph guard Jason Malinowski has made 44 assists in Skyline's five games to date.

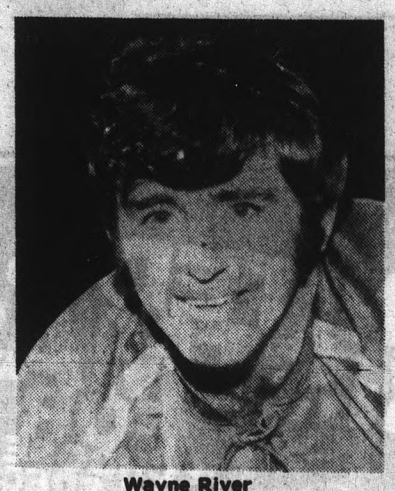
Shamrocks Open at Cow Palace Dec. 26

Wounded financially twice before, hockey is coming back to the Bay Area for another try.

And as they did in their first comeback try, the hockey people have revived a familiar name. It was the Seals in 1961 and now in 1977 it will be the San Francisco Shamrocks, the name carried by the semipro team that played at Winterland from 1948 to 1950.

The Shamrocks will play the first of 24 home games against the San Diego Mariners on Dec. 26 at the Cow Palace. They actually will open the season in San Diego on Christmas Day and they will be playing their third game in a row on Dec. 27 against the Los Angeles Swords at the Cow Palace. They play the other team in the four-team league, the Long Beach Sharks, in the latter's rink on Dec. 30.

Wayne River, 35, a former World Hockey Association all-star, was introduced as the team's player-coach at a press conference at the Cow Palace Wednesday.



Wayne River

The team's principal owners, Jerry Saperstein, son of Abe Saperstein, founder of the Harlem Globetrotters, and Dennis Murphy, a founder of the World Hockey Association, were at the press conference.

They stressed a desire to "put the family back in hockey" and mentioned a ticket price structure of $5 rinkside, $3.50 reserved and $2 general admission.

Rivers said the new league expects no trouble in finding players. He said the Shamrocks have 50 on their roster, which will be trimmed to 27 when the team goes to training camp at Monterey on Dec. 14 and further trimmed to the team limit of 17 when the season starts.

On the roster, although not necessarily getting or accepting contracts, are two former Seals — Joey Johnston and Wayne King. Johnston reportedly is playing senior hockey in Canada, having recovered from an auto accident that led to his departure from major league hockey shortly after he was traded by the Seals to Chicago.

Murphy said the wage structure for players would vary from $350 to $500 a week during the playing season. He said each team would be required to ice five American-born players and that it is hoped to increase this number in the future. Saperstein said the league would have no ties to NHL and WHA teams.

Peter Graham, league and San Diego team president, said no playoff formula has been worked out yet. The season will end on April 4.

Saperstein said that consideration is to be given to enlarging the league to eight teams next year, with Seattle, Portland, Phoenix and Salt Lake City as possible members. The latter two now play in the Central Hockey League.

Diaz NPL's Back of Year

Terra Nova High quarterback Mike Diaz was named North Peninsula League back of the year on the NPL all-league team announced recently.

Half Moon Bay High's Phil Pettingill was named lineman of the year. He played defensive end, and guard and center on offense.

TN coach Bob Lotti and HMB mentor Jerry Murphy were named co-coaches of the year.

One interesting note: Half Moon Bay was not accorded a single selection on either first team or second team offense. HMB had five picks on first team defense and none on the second team. Cougars were NPL co-champs.

CCS Volleyball

SSF Girls Lose Final

South San Francisco High won the bridesmaid role in the Central Coast Section volleyball playoffs for the fourth consecutive year over the weekend, losing in the finals to tall and powerful St. Francis, the defending sectional champions, 15-6, 15-1.

"St. Francis is just a tremendous team," commented SSF coach Ann Stluka after the long day. "We'd get back one spike, two spikes, and they'd just ram the third one down our throats. We played well, but simply lost to an outstanding squad."

Named to the All-tourney squad were SSF captain Beth Damonte and consistent junior setter Stacy Kirk.

The tiny Warriors, who average 5-4, opened the tourney by literally playing giant killer and chopping down Region III champ Live Oak, (whose starting six averages 5'9") 9-15, 15-12, 15-10.

In the third game Petrini ripped six consecutive unreturned serves past Live Oak.

After a short break, SSF came back to lose to St. Francis in the second round of winners' bracket play, 15-8, 15-7.

South City played well with the lunging and diving Damonte and senior Jeanette Perry sparking the defense with impossible, floor-crashing saves. "South City has an excellent defense, one of the best I've seen this year," said St. Francis coach, Diane Pelosi, who got her 103rd career win at SSF' expense in the finals.

In the losers bracket SSF demolished Live Oak for the second time, 15-4, 15-12.

Coming out for their fourth match of the day, the Warriors went against St. Francis in the finals. With Lancer spiking stars Adrienne Duque and Joanne LeBaron being set-up by tourney MVP setter Barbara Dunne, St. Francis pounded out an easy, two-set victory for the sectional title over the tiring Warriors.

"We just lacked the firepower today," reflected Stluka. "But I'm not unhappy with our scrappy bunch. At the beginning of the year I was worrying about making it out of our league, much less into the regionals and sectionals. But here we are. What this team did today is a tribute to their skill and determination over the whole season."

Balboa Drops Jefferson

Visiting Balboa of San Francisco defeated Jefferson High's basketball team 88-70 Thursday despite a fine overall performance by Jeff forward Darryl Jackson.

Jackson led the Indians with 22 points and also collected 16 rebounds, four assists and four steals. Also pacing Jeff's attack were Larry Woods with 14 points and Bob Oller with 12.

Jeff is now 0-1 in non-league play.

Lorraine Heath

Let's start with a shopping tip this week.

The ladies of the Our Lady of Mercy Catholic parish have been stirring and chopping and baking for weeks now, getting ready for the candy and cookie portion of the holiday boutique staged by the Westlake Catholic Women. If you have a sweet tooth, or if you have shopping to do for people who enjoy luscious homemade treats, don't miss the Country Boutique and Sweet Shoppe to be held on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Lawrence Minnix and Mrs. Martin Getchell are in charge of the cookies and candies and Mrs. James McKee and Mrs. Marcel Covel are in charge of the boutique tables where lovely handmade goods and Christmas decorations will be offered for sale.

The sale will begin immediately following the Saturday evening Mass and will continue following each Mass on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Vera Forte of Daly City is the lucky individual who won the first prize at the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's Luau. The second prize went to Sister Victoria, the third prize winner was Dr. Neil Malcahy and the fourth prize went to Jim Zavitka.

Mrs. Mary McCoy, the director of Volunteers at Mary's Help Hospital, has returned from Sacramento where she worked with the California Hospital Association Committee on Volunteer Services in Sacramento.

The meeting was a planning session for the California Hospital Association volunteers convention which will be held in Sacramento on February 26, 27 and 28.

Girl Scout calendars — A great bargain at only $1 per copy — are still available from Mrs. Karen Rodgers, 124 Shipley Drive, Daly City.

It's pot luck dinner night for the Holy Angels Women's Guild.

All women of the parish and their friends are invited to attend this annual party which will begin at 7 tonight in the parish hall.

The price of admission is either a hot dish; a salad, a dessert or a $3 donation. No reservations are required. The parish hall is at 107 San Pedro Road.

It is election day in Daly City!

Mrs. Louise Buttle, the publicity chairman for the Daly City Senior Citizens, reports that new club officers will be elected today during the regular Wednesday meeting.

Club activities for the holidays have been most successful. The Thanksgiving feast was attended by more than 170 persons and among the guests were Mayor Al Teglia; Councilperson Jane Powell and Kathy Chatlelier of the Park and Recreation department. The only sad note was the resignation of Club President Mrs. Laura Madding, who has since moved to Southern California to be nearer her family.

Mrs. Isabel Ryan, second vice president, is serving as interim president.

On Dec. 21 the club will hold its Christmas party for members only. Mrs. Buttle stressed the fact that now one will be admitted to the meeting on that date without a valid membership card.

On Tuesday, Dec. 13, the Riordan Guild and the Riordan Fathers' Club will host its annual Christmas party in the Chaminade hall on the Riordan High School campus.

The evening will feature entertainment, refreshments and a buffet.

Mrs. Paul Drew, publicity chairman, reports that all parents of Riordan High School students are welcome to attend this party which will get underway at 8 p.m.

No Dolphin Club tryouts in December!

Mrs. James Morino, publicity chairperson for the Daly City swim club, notes that the Westmoor High School pool will be closed the second half of the month of December and so no training sessions or tryouts will be possible.

The next tryout for the team will be held on Jan. 16.

SANTA'S PLANNERS

"Operation Santa Claus" volunteers plot Santa's delivery route as they prepare for Daly City's big annual project expected to furnish Christmas food baskets and toys for children. Left to right are James Lafka, Don Cuicci, Al Belotz, Robert Richardson and Charlie Smithson. Usable toys, especially bicycles, are needed and may be donated at any Daly City fire station. Cash contributions may be sent to Operation Santa Claus, 313-90th St., Daly City 94015. "Santa's Helpers," playground youngsters, are continuing to convass neighborhoods collecting canned goods to be included in the food baskets.

HOW THIS SCHOOL DID IT

Serramonte's student of the month is Lindsay Chu.

The Daly City-Colma Exchange Club honors a different senior every month for his or her outstanding contribution and service to his or her school. These students are eligible for a $100 scholarship. Lindsay, the first student honored, is student body president for 1977-78.

SERRAMONTE'S accrediting report is nearing completion. Every certificated and classified person has participated in this report. Parents and community members are invited to the principal's office to see what has been done and to give their perceptions.

Next April a visiting team of six educators will be at Serramonte to evaluate and make recommendations.

ON DECEMBER 14, Serramonte's concert band will have a spaghetti dinner prior to its winter concert.

The dinner will start at 6:30 p.m. Cost is $3 for spaghetti with meat, green salad, french roll, coffee or milk and dessert. The dinner will be served in the cafeteria.

At 8 p.m. the concert will begin. Admission is free for M.I.C.E. (Music: It Concerns Everyone) members and $1 for nonmembers. The concert will be in the little theater.

Proceeds will go to the Debbie Burrows Memorial Fund.

The next M.I.C.E. meeting is tonight at 7:30 in the faculty room.

TOMORROW Serramonte's second assembly of the year will be sponsored by the Executive Board and will feature the Navy's Show Band West.

SELLING — The Sophomore class is selling buttons for the class of '80 . . . The C.S.F. is selling candy canes for 15 cents each.

THE PARENT TEACHER Student Association has launched a concerted effort to increase membership. This organization will meet again in January in the faculty room.

Ram-blings

By STEVE KAUFMAN

With the Christmas season rapidly approaching, many school events are reflecting the proper spirit. The coming winter vacation of two weeks has motivated many clubs and organizations to put on activities before we break.

The Pilipino-American club is planning to go caroling Dec. 5-15, from 8-10 p.m. at as many Westmoor students' homes as possible.

"Maligayang Pasko at Masaganang Bagong Taon" (Merry Christmas and Happy New Year) from Jean Borja, club president and from Usin Pisingan, club advisor.

The BSU club is hosting the Second Annual Winter Ball Dec. 9, from 8 to 11 p.m. Fifteen prizes will be offered and the Christmas king, queen, princes and princesses will be announced. The band, New Genesis, will play.

Westmoor's annual canned food and clothes drive is underway. Members of each of the four classes are saving up their canned foods and old clothes collected from members of the community. The day before the winter break, Dec. 16, two trucks from Goodwill Industries will haul away the hundreds of pounds of clothes. The class with the most pounds of clothes will win the contest. The Class of '79 has won the title for the past two years, but with the spirited new Freshmen class, there will be some stiff competition.

The Rally Committee is planning a Christmas rally for Dec. 14. The class with the "most" spirit gets to watch a class representative throw a pie in a cheerleader's face!

CONGRATULATIONS to Westmoor's drama department, which presented its fall play, The Imaginary Invalid, a French comedy about a hypochondriac who thinks he is ill. It portrays him and the many events surrounding his life. The play is actually a spoof on 17th century doctors and their ridiculous cures for their ill patients.

The cast includes Brian Russel, Peggy Morris, Teri Cinti, Clive Reece, Lori Findorff, Dean Palmer, Michelle Nissim, Ralph Rechnitz, Steve Boides, Jan Johnson, Thom Jacobs, and Mike Montes. The behind-the-scene crew include Marcia Kludgian, Babbie Freiberg, Lisa Braski, Alison Jenkins, Paul Grosshans, Paul Allenfort, Ricardo Saucedo, Peggy Morris, Teri Cinti, Clive Reece, Brian Russel, Maria Mendoza, Marisa Grezedo, Amy Johnson and Gina LaStella.

The play ran Dec. 1-3.

SPORTS — The boy's Block "W" organization is having its annual fall awards banquet Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. Athletes who participated in fall sports will receive their awards at this dinner. Tickets are on sale for $1.50 in the back of the cafeteria during both lunch periods.

Good luck to Westmoor's Varsity bsketball team, which will compete in the Fifth Annual Serra Invitational Tournament at Serra High School. Their first-round game is today against Aragon, a Mid-Peninsula power.

To get to Serra High School, take 280 south to Junction 92 exit, proceed to Alameda de las Pulgas, take a right, and then the first left, and you're there!

RADIO KRAM is on the air. Hooked into the cafeteria during both lunch periods . . . FM stereo music to munch by.

'Nutcracker' Performances

The San Francisco Ballet's annual "Nutcracker" holiday performances will open Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. The 1977 "Nutcracker" schedule, with 29 performances, will run through Dec. 27 at San Francisco's War Memorial Opera House.

On the 33rd anniversary of the original full-length production, Lew Christensen's "Nutcracker" has become synonymous with the Christmas season in the Bay Area.

The Opera Box Office is open for "Nutcracker" ticket sales. Tickets range in price from $3 to $15.

For details call the Opera Box Office at 431-1210.

Samuel Chandler

Now here is a fact to put your cares and woes in their proper perspective . . .

During 1978, the earth — and we along with it — will travel 584,000,000 miles in an orbit around the sun. It will take 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. A hundred years from now, the same trip will take a second less, and all the troubles of all the men on earth cannot change it.

AS ROBERT B. THOMAS wrote, "In contemplation of this order we come to realize our world is not at all as confusing as day to day living says it is."

Thomas was founder of a work that has passed through 186 editions, the grand "Old Farmer's Almanack" (Yankee, 1977, $1.00).

Okay, what do you want to know? When will the holidays come in 1978? When will each of the planets shine the brightest? How do you tell the time by the stars? When should you plant cabbage or some other vegetable?

The "Old Farmer's Almanack" can tell you.

Why, the "Old Farmer's Almanack" even tells you why it is not advisable to name a cow after your neighbor's wife or how to make a cranberry roly poly or blackberry grunt.

Seriously, the "Old Farmer's Almanack" is a storehouse of information, odd facts, puzzles, recipes and advertisements. Unfortunately, its lack of an index or even an adequate table of contents detracts from its use as a reference tool. But as a browsing book it is superb. Truly, it's a hundred dollars worth of fun for one.

EVERY HOUSEHOLD should have an almanac. No other reference tool fits the niche. Of these, perhaps the most remarkable is the "World Almanac." It is published annually in November to present nearly 1,000 pages of facts upon facts, each carefully recorded in an index in the front of the book. Included is a summary of the previous year's events in every major field.

As the editors state, the "World Almanac" contains nearly 1,000 pages of "instant answers." No wonder the American Library Association calls it an "up-to-date, useful handbook."

IN THE SAME manner, but in a slightly different way, "Information Please" is a compilation of miscellaneous facts and a review of important events of the previous year. Among the many features there is a vitamin table guide; a guide to colleges and universities; a world history section; and a surprising section labeled "The Crossword Puzzle Guide," which bears as a subtitle the words "First Aid to Crossword Puzzlers." The map section in "Information Please" adds to the value of the volume. This title deserves its reputation as "a whole shelf of reference books in one volume."

THE READERS DIGEST Almanac and Year Book is a newer title produced annually to be a guide to the previous year in words and pictures.

Each year its editors endeavor to produce a book of instant reference in every field from A to Z. Their success is evidenced in their ability to include pictures — a feature not found in other almanacs.

"World Almanac," "Information Please," "The Readers Digest Almanac," even the "Old Farmer's Almanack" make excellent Christmas presents. Give one of them to the man in your family. He'll love it, so will his women. As Robert Thomas asked, "who does not need basic information?"

Mary's Help Stroke Party

Mary's Help Hospital will have a Christmas party at 7 p.m. December 13 in the hospital cafeteria for victims of stroke and their families. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided.

The party is part of an ongoing effort to educate stroke victims and their families on how to live with the consequences of stroke. Past gatherings have featured health-care professionals as speakers on topics of interest. Meetings are on the second Tuesday of each month. Everyone is welcome.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Vegetables are plentiful and reasonably priced at this time of year and can be cooked in unlimited ways. Following is a recipe for Worcestered Vegetable Medley, a nutritious combination of cubed eggplant, zucchini, sweet corn kernels, tomatoes and green pepper given delicious aroma with Worcesterhire sauce and a little basil.

This recipe is very flexible. Make up a vegetable medley of whatever you find plentiful — potatoes, carrots, broccoli, okra, celery or green beans would be good alternates. If there are long-cookers among them, cook them separately and add during the last 5 minutes.

WORCESTERED VEGETABLE MEDLEY

6 Tablespoons butter or margarine
1 green pepper, diced
½ cup chopped onions
1 medium eggplant, cubed (about 6 cups)
2 medium zucchini, sliced
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon basil leaves, crumbled
1 Tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups fresh or canned corn kernels
2 medium tomatoes, cut into wedges

In a very large skillet melt the six tablespoons butter. Add one cup green pepper, half cup chopped onions, saute 2 minutes. Stir in the six cups eggplant, zucchini, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon basil and one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Stir in the two cups corn and two medium tomatoes. Cover and simmer until vegetables are crisp-tender, about 3 minutes longer. Yield: 6 portions.

Red Cross CPR Aide Class in SSF

The Red Cross has announced a Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) Instructor Aide Course to be held in the South San Francisco Service Center, 803½ Linden Avenue, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, Dec. 27 and 29 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

For further information and to register, call Red Cross Safety Programs. 589-5864 or 343-4561.

Demo Meet

The Daly City-Colma Democratic Club will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at 155 Longview Drive to choose a nominating committee to select its 1978 board and to hear Nancy Hower of Amnesty International, who will discuss the work her organization is doing in the world.

Religion Digest

'New Lights Narratives'

The Friends of the Jewish Community Library will present the Jewish Artists and Writers Network in "New Lights Narratives: An Evening of Story, Myth and Fable" Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

The program at the Jewish Community Library of the Bureau of Jewish Education, 601 — 14th Ave. will feature Michael Makowsky, poet, teacher and fabulist and Bruch Ring, translator and teller of Chassidic stories.

Jewish History Questions

Could Theodore Herzl have envisioned the circumstances in the Middle East which are now in the headlines every day?

How did the politics of the Middle East in this century finally get to the point where this "rapprochement" could take place?

Where does Zionism and the creation of the State of Israel fit into this picture?

Will the history of the Jews in the 20th century be marked by a turning point as recent as November 1977?

What has led up to this set of momentous events?

These questions, among others, will be the subject of the final session in the series comprising the Survey of Jewish History, which will take place at the Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center, 655 Brotherhood Way, Dec. 15 at 8.

The series is co-sponsored by the San Francisco Community College District and the Bureau of Jewish Education.

Unique Chanukah Service

A unique Chanukah service will be held Dec. 9 at 8:30 p.m. at Congregation Beth Israel-Judea on Brotherhood Way, San Francisco.

Members and friends of the Synagogue are invited to bring their Chanukah Menorahs and candles on this particular evening and join in a special candle-lighting ceremony. All families will light their own menorahs together.

Following the service, there will be Israeli dancing with the Temple Dance Troupe led by Tamra Morris and a special Oneg Shabbat hosted by the Sisterhood.

Siyum Latorah Luncheon

In celebration of the completion of a portion of the Torah Beth Israel-Judea will have a "Siyum Latorah" luncheon on Dec. 10, sponsored by members of the synagogue, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra M. Battat.

Services will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Following the service, the congregation and friends will move to Fellowship Hall for a discussion on the next Torah portion to be led by Cantor Henry Greenberg.

Presbyterian Tableau

A Christmas tableau, "We Have Come to Worship Him," will be presented at 5 p.m. this Sunday at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 — 87th St., Daly City, by the Sunday School pupils, directed by Mrs. Gerald Manis.

This is part of the early evening Christmas Advent activities put on for the congregation and the public by the Sunday School, of which Frank and Shirley Sevastacis are the general superintendents.

At 4 p.m. the adults will meet with the pupils in classrooms to make Christmas decorations.

The 5 p.m. tableau program is to be followed by a 5:45 p.m. potluck supper, at which Christmas carols will be sung.

Sunday worship service and Sunday School will be held at 10 a.m. The junior and adult choirs will sing.

The sermon subject is to be "The Annunciation for Then and Now."

Infant care is provided.

The pastor is the Rev. Her ert C. Tweedie.

NEWS DIGEST

'Christmas Carol' Revived

"A Christmas Carol," first presented last holiday season by the American Conservatory Theater in a new adaptation by director Laird Williamson and Dennis Powers, will be revived for Christmas this year.

The classic Charles Dickens tale of the miserly Scrooge who finally acquiesces to the festive spirit of the season opens Dec. 6.

Tickets are now on sale for all scheduled performances, with best seats still available for Dec. 13 (8:30 p.m.), Dec. 23 (2:30 matinee) and Dec. 29 (8:30). Gift certificates in any denomination may be purchased for this A.C.T. production as for all others in the current Geary Theater repertory.

Money for Graduates

Assemblyman Louis Papan, D-San Mateo County, has announced that applications are available in his office for the 1978-79 State Graduate Fellowship Program.

Applicants must be beginning their first or second year of graduate study and must be able to demonstrate financial need. Awards will be made on a competitive basis and will consider graduate entrance test scores and grades in addition to need.

Grants will range from $700 to full tuition and fee for full time study at any California graduate or professional school. They can be renewed for up to three additional years if necessary for the student's degree objective.

The application deadline is Feb. 6, 1978. Announcement of awards will be made in May 1978. For applications or details, call the office, 756-6400.

Gift-Wrapping Benefit

A gift-wrapping booth in the Tanforan Park Shopping Center during the holiday season is being sponsored by the Conquistadors Drum & Bugle Corps to help obtain new instruments and uniforms.

Expert gift wrapping services will be offered at moderate prices, with any profit going to the corps fund.

The wrapping booth, located in the shopping center mall, will be open during shopping hours from Thanksgiving until Christmas Eve. A selection of boxes and colorful wraps are available.

The Conquistadors are the northern Peninsula's marching and music representatives in field competition throughout the western states and in dozens of civic parades throughout the year.

The corps' membership includes more than 100 young people, age 12 to 21, and 8 to 11 in a junior cadet unit. It is open to all interested youth.

The Conquistadors is an independent, non-profit organization dedicated solely to developing musical talent, physical skills, leadership and civic responsibility. It is supported by its own booster club and is co-sponsored by the South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department and VFW Post 4103 of South San Francisco.
